February 25th, 2010 Chapter Meeting

“Career Planning in Today’s Environment”

Presented By: Kathryn C. Kelly, PMP, PhD

Kathryn C. Kelly, PMP PhD, is the director of Thinking in Action LLC. Her academic credentials consist of a BA in Linguistics, an MA in Foreign Language Education, an MBA in Accounting, and a PhD in Curriculum and Instruction. Along with many years of teaching business and writing courses, she has managed professional development programs both within the academic setting and in the business world. For the last 4 years she has worked as a contractor at Shell in downtown Houston.

Kathryn is an expert on the learning process. Her experience includes seven years at The University of Texas Medical Branch at Galveston (UTMB) where she was tasked with improving the learning skills of medical students, interns, and physicians.

Kathryn’s educational philosophy is based on two sentences she found in a report prepared for the U.S. Department of Education: “Excellence costs. But in the long run, mediocrity costs far more.”
